THEY ARE BOTH REAL HORSES—Both real horses are Puma, the giant percheron weighing over a ton and the little chug between his legs, a 14-day-old Shetland pony. Both live on a farm at London, Ontario.

HE WANTS TO BE COAXED A LITTLE BIT—"Handy" isn't quite sure he's going to like this as his mistress, Marie Cyrilligne, of Birmingham, coaxes him for wash with Ralph Tregel's winking face cloth.

PIPE BANDS THRILL SCOTS—Nearly 15,000 thrilled to the shrill music of the bagpipes at Hamilton, Ont., as the annual Scottish games got under way, with 21 pipe bands featuring. Misses Hainey, 14, and Golden Buchanan, 17, came with band from Fort. McK. to compete. Smallest

Root at gathering of the class was Donald Williams, two, of Hamilton, who sported the night's McLeod tartan. He is with Irene Angus of St. Catharines, Ont., drill team.

HORSEFLESH TACTICS AT STAMPEDES GIVE SPECTATORS PLENTY O' THRILLS—Across the prairie dozens of stampedes in Alberta and Saskatchewan and the daddy of them all—the Calgary Stampede—have been held this summer. This ton of wild horseflesh at a Southern Alberta stampede, has love for neither the rider nor the saddle strapped to him. The baron's tactics give spectators big thrills.

FAIRER BLONDE WINS TITLE—Ronde beauty holding aloft the trophy she won in Paris as "Miss Bathing Beauty of 1948" is Jacqueline Kennedy. In a hairdresser and beautician, she was chosen from among 25 contestants.

POLE HOUSE-SHOUT, SAY BUILD FOR YANKS—Although the housing units are needed in Fort Erie, Ont., to overcome a serious home shortage, local residents can't get contractors to build their houses. Construction programs are booming in the area, but they are for United States citizens whose fathers are buying new homes created by Canadian labor. Above is a home built by U.S. citizens near Chrysler Beach, Ont.

WORKING AMONG BEES—When he's not operating his ferry across the Red Deer River at Didsbury, Alta., R. A. Bradshaw works among the 10 hives of bees which he keeps as a hobby. Mrs. Bradshaw doesn't mind working among the bees either as can be seen in this photo.

LITTLE CHARLEY—This picture shows little Charley, "White-Nosed boy", among the daisies, who lives on Grosvenor Island, Maricao National Park, Pinar del Rio, Cuba. He is eating strawberries as fast as his father can pick them. None of the group of children could speak English, and were very shy as well, so the rest of Charley's name was missed.

$50,000 AWARDED FOR INJURIES—Awarded $50,000 in supreme court in Windsor, Ont., for injuries suffered in a hayride accident, two years ago, 18-year-old Theresa Grondin hasn't made plans for spending all that money. Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel noted at the conclusion of the hayride accident case: "I have had the opportunity, I should say the privilege, of hearing Miss Grondin give her evidence. I couldn't help but be greatly impressed by her cheerfulness in the face of what the future holds for her, a young woman deprived of all hope of winship and motherhood, and who must spend all her life dependent on others."

GASOLINE BOAT BLAST CLAIMS ONE VICTIM—All that remains of the 62-foot gasoline supply boat Moskauville after she blew up and caught fire killing one man and injuring two badly, is shown here as burning timber runs into the water. The blast, right in town, was felt in the business district. The boat had an 8,000-gallon tank in it that did not blow up.
